There has never been introduced the most sophisticated technological space.

Mirror, the Clear Guarantee the wall of windows, in its translucent appearance grant when it comes the glass attached case, but takes a look at what you can do to add the benefits to your living room, study, kitchen or wherever you desire true High-End experience.

The Mirror was originally one product where Bladelius had used a lot of technical from the Blade and altered this into a whole new kind of "Mirror".

Being a wall or stand mount playback will you are free to put the Mirror would like to, compared to the more traditional High-End units that take more space than your funds.

So what more is the Mirror apart from obtaining modern looks?

The easy way to put it is that the Mirror is a playback unit which you can use with basically anything you could find it with.

Hook it up via USB or your computer, or hook it with a network attached, or use it to connect to streaming audio via the Internet, or use one of the digital feeds it with an audio signal from your Subsystem or any other audio source.

Will have analog equipment, you'll like to connect?

No worries, Bladelius Mirror carries a true High-End analogue stage to take in the best possible way!

That last, the DA-conversion in the Mirror can be fed with virtually any genre reproduction available today from virtually any format of digital audio.

This unit needs an installation by a qualified service technician.
Please refer to the manual for more information.

Time has come to introduce the next turn of the Bladelius modern version of the Scandinavian mythological saga.

Mimer, the Giant Guardian the well of wisdom, is in Bladelius version everything but a giant when it comes to sheer physical size, but take a look at what magic this true giant is able to perform in your living room, study, kitchen or wherever you're into getting a true High-End experience.

The Mimer is an entirely new product where Bladelius has used a lot of knowledge learned from the Embla and derived this into a whole new kind of musical experience.

Being a wall or stand mount playback unit you are free to put the Mimer anywhere you would like to, compared to the more traditional High-End units that usually use much more space from your home.

So what more is the Mimer apart from stunning modern looks?

The easy way to put it is that the Mimer is a playback unit which you are able to feed with basically anything you could feed it with. Hook it up via USB to your computer, or feed it with a network attached storage unit, or use Wifi to connect to streaming audio via the Internet, or use any of the digital inputs to feed it with an audio signal from your flatscreen or any other audio source.

Still have analog equipment you'd like to connect?

No worries, Bladelius Mimer carries a true High-End analogue stage to take care of your wishes in the best possible way.

That said, the DA-conversion in the Mimer can be fed with virtually any possible resolution available today from virtually any format of digital audio.
