

Top Five Christmas Gifts for music makers

Musical Fidelity EB-50 In-Ear Monitors

Unlike conventional speakers, monitors are essential for musicians and you need audio fidelity – to trust that what you are hearing is what you are playing – and then to tweak accordingly. The build-quality of the EB-50s is phenomenal and they're great for recording, mixing and mastering. The drivers use neodymium magnets for greater sound definition, which are encased in a multi-layer, anti-resonant material to eradicate any of the internal vibrations that leads to distortion in lesser designs. These are then housed in a non-resonant military-spec aluminium body.

The Musical Fidelity EB-50 in-ear monitors are available in the UK now with the SRP of £149.99 but I've seen them online for less. For further details, go to www.musicalfidelity.com