

Ken Shindo

1939–2014

Ken Shindo, the Japanese audio designer whose electronics, loudspeakers, and accessories have influenced worlds of tube audio and analog audio, died late last month after a brief illness. He was 74.

Shindo Laboratory will remain in business, operated by Shindo-san's family and employees.